Texas Memoir

BY ASHLIN

No. 2.

An unusual thing for Texas, as in fact for all Southern States, began to be noticed.—Over the bed of every man [illegible]g his rifle and pistols ready for use. At night the windows were let down and outside doors closed. This I had never seen before, and it had often been a subject of remark, the apparent carelessness at night of the household. Without bolts or locks, all laid down to sleep with a feeling of safety and security. It was not so now.—There was a dread, a fear of something.—Patrols were appointed and any negro found outside of his master's property without a pass from his owner, stating where he was sent and how long a time was allowed him, was taken up and received so many lashes, more or less, as the penalty. This, too, in a country where "all men are born free and equal." It is a kind of equality where we would be somewhat inclined to have a choice of position, and also of color. I think it was at this time that in Houston, even white persons in the streets after a certain hour, were obliged to give a satisfactory reason for it.—Whispers and many rumors arose that the slaves might rise. No one knew from whence these stories sprang, but still greater caution was observed, and conversation before the slaves was not quite as free as formerly.—Overseers, well armed, at night went the rounds of the negro quarters to see if all were asleep, and searched the cabins to ascertain if there were any concealed weapons.

The fourth of March, 1861, came, and with it this alarm, that on the coming night, the Brazoria and Fort Bend county slaves were to rise. An old woman, at the point of death, confessed the plot to her mistress, who gave warning instantly. No one slept that night, double guard and care was kept, and watch was set all the night. The slaves saw the secret was out, therefore the attempt was useless. The whites were too well prepared.—But for the timely warning of the old dying woman, few would have lived to have told the story. The plantations were large; houses at a distance from each other, and the slaves outnumbered the whites at the rate of thirty to one white man. An insurrection to be successful, depends on its secresy and the surprise given. The negro soon loses his courage in an open and regular attack. No one felt secure from that hour. It is simply absurd to say that the attachment the slave has for his master will prevent his taking all chances of escape. In liberty, all he makes is his own; in bondage, with the best of masters, nothing belongs to him; his earnings go to swell out the property of his owner. Texas, as a general thing, was more lenient to her slaves than any Southern State I was ever in. I do not believe that the dusky contraband is my well beloved brother, or that he is on an intellectual par with the majority of whites. But I do believe, though black his face, that his soul is white before his Maker; that he has his rights and privileges, and at the proper time he should go free. The Proclamation of the 22d of September has given that order at last; whether wisely or not, time must decide. If it will crush the rebellion or weaken it in the least, it is the one great thing long needed. It will either do every thing or nothing; there is no luke warm work for it.

Two years almost have passed since South Carolina disgraced herself and her posterity forever, by opening her guns on Anderson's little band; then the attack on the brave Massachusetts boys at Baltimore, where the first drop of blood trickled from the wound that has flooded the country ever since. Two years have nearly gone by, and how now is it with the rebellion? Is it weaker or stronger to-day? While they have worked, toiled, aye, lied for success, what have we been doing? Pouring out money at a million and a half a day to—fill the contractor's pocket; giving up life after life of our loved ones on some such fields as Shiloh and Fredericksburg, and to what purpose? If perchance a victory has been gained, we have spent weeks in glorifying it—prophesying the wonders to be done, and when we were to take Richmond; and while so doing, Stuart or Jackson have been making the circuit of the army and laughing in our faces.

No candid man can with truth say that the South had the faintest shadow of a reason for secession. "If you elect Lincoln we will secede." The rule had been in the hands of the oligarchy so long, it rebelled at a President so heartily chosen as Lincoln. And so those guns boomed out on Sumpter till the stars and stripes and those who defended them,—the flag that was never struck, and the men who had never surrendered,—bent to the so-called Confederacy. And women—shame to them—stood on the house tops to see the humiliation of the best government in the world. And yet there are northern men who are mean enough to advocate, if they dared, the cause of the South and talk of Northern provocation. Toombs said, "we are the gentlemen of the times, and gentlemen always make revolutions." And a certain gentleman of this town, in my presence, was admiring the style and gentlemanly sense of the above expression! Very bad style and very poor taste in my opinion. But for our dear sisters of South Carolina, I would in the future give them a sight worthy of their gaze. When once more we stand upon her coast, as we shall assuredly do, sole owners and possessors of our own lawful property, let Charleston be blotted from the face of the earth, and over her ruins write "in memoriam."

OFFICE SUPERINTENDENT INDIAN AFFAIRS }
Salem, Oregon January 14th, 1863 }

Editor Oregonian

Dear Sir In a late issue of Mountaineer I notice several articles, written and published containing grave charges against me in my official capacity This is the second instance since I assumed the duties of this office, that this paper has given publicity to falsehood and slander, with a malicious design to injure me if possible On a former occasion I was charged with fraud and corruption because I did not let a certain contract for the transportation of annuity goods from Rockland to Fort Simcoe, in Washington Territory Proposals for this transportation had been invited by Superintendent Geary, then acting for both State and Territory prior to my taking charge, but as my appointment was for Oregon I declined to let the contract, and notified the Superintendent and Agent in charge of the fact. I paid no attention to his article, believing that when he was fully advised that he would correct it But he lacked the manhood and honor to make any correction whatever and suffered the falsehood and slander to pass as truth He now charges that I received $70,000 in gold coin, and subsequently turned the gold into "greenbacks with the intention to pay them at par This charge I pronounce maliciously false I received the remittance due the Superintendency for the third and fourth quarters in a draft upon the Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco, and exchanged the same with Ladd & Tilton, receiving $69,100 in legal tender Treasury Notes and $2,900 in coin. This last amount was obtained as a matter of accommodation for making change I made this exchange at a time when it was well known to every business man that they had been and were paying at the Sub Treasury in legal tender notes I received par value for the draft without loss or gain either to the Government or myself I have disbursed this money in paying the liabilities against the Department, and have given general satisfaction to all with whom I had contracts and dealings,

I do not make this statement because I think it any part of my duty to do so as I have reported to my superior, and should not have noticed it all only that you and other journalists have given the Mountaineer some notoriety by republishing his slanderous article in your papers, and there may be some in the country who might mistake the Mountaineer for a responsible sheet, and the editor for a gentleman

Hoping that this may be satisfactory as regards this extensive fraud I shall take no further notice of his libels in this manner

Very resp'y, your ob t serv't
W H RECTOR
Superintendent Indian Affairs Oregon

Contrary to our rule about "unnecessarily personal" articles, we print Mr Rector s letter just as it is written although we believe that he would have thanked us hereafter if we had modified some of the stronger expressions which it contains In justice to ourselves we deny that we have ever republished any thing from the Mountaineer on this subject, because we believed that that journal was acting on misinformation, but we did copy the very temperate and eminently fair statement of the Statesman and added thereto some other information, which had lately come into our possession tending to give the public a fair understanding of the actual transaction.

From the temper of Mr Rector's letter, it would appear that he is of opinion that the people have no right to demand any account of the official conduct of the Federal office holders in our midst but that if his superiors are satisfied, it is none of the people s business A more fatal error than this never formed the rule of action of any political party whatever By the contrary course the Democrats kept the reins of power during nearly two generations We assert that their regard for the wishes of the people among whom Federal officers were appointed, had more to do with the success of their party than all their platforms If an official was acceptable to the people who surrounded him, they seldom removed him and whenever they did the result was always disastrous to the interests of the party We do not know a more striking instance of the effect of this rule than in the case of Nesmith's removal, from jealousy—without cause, at the instigation of Gen Lane The people showed their feelings in the case by sending Nesmith to succeed this same Lane in the Senate Upon the other hand the Democrats would not retain a man in office no matter how correct his dealings, if his general bearing towards the people was offensive They thus established a double accountability—to the Government in matters of detail, and to the people, in whose midst the official lived in all things relating to the general aspect of his official conduct

We are very glad that Mr Rector has taken upon himself to come forward and explain the transaction relative to this draft and will take pleasure in recording such evidences of popular opinion of its being satisfactory as may come under our notice

WAR SCRIP – By the subjoined letter from Col W W Chapman owners of Indian War Bonds will see that an attempt is made to tax still farther the very scant allowance which the General Government has made to them It will be recollected that Duncan Sherman & Co were to attend to the collection of certain claims for 10 per cent of the amount collected and that the remaining proceeds should be paid in San Francisco, Oregon or Washington Territory, as the owners might elect It is held that the obligation exists, on the part of Duncan Sherman & Co to pay the proceeds of the sale of bonds at the points elected, as well as to deliver the bonds themselves, We recommend to those who have bonds in the charge of this firm to ascertain whether the proceeds of sales are to be delivered here, or not before ordering them s ll

PORTLAND, OREGON, Jan 14 1863
Editor Oregonian

Permit me to put the owners of Oregon War Scrip on their guard against a new and unauthorized shave A receipt of Duncan, Sherman & Co of New York, for War Scrip, has been placed in my hands for collection in which receipt they promise to place the funds to be collected at the owners disposal, at some point in either San Francisco, Oregon, or Washington Territory They now seek to compel the owner to draw upon them through Ladd & Tilton for current funds in New York, they charging 30 per cent for exchange, thus causing the owner of the claim to pay 40 per cent, instead of 10 per cent, for collection I refused to draw for the money upon such terms, because the funds were payable in Oregon or California There is a large amount of money coming to the people of Oregon for war scrip, and the schemes of such agents as Duncan, Sherman & Co may be thwarted, if timely caution be exerted. Duncan Sherman & Co may not be the only agents to be guarded against in exchanges on New York If agents receive as they nearly all do, a large per cent for collection of scrip it ought to satisfy them, and they are swindling the owner if they do not give him the best they receive without speculation upon greenbacks or exchange There is a regular tribe of swindles, in shuffling bonds greenbacks Treasury warrants, and coin mixed with the cost of exchanges, that challenges competition

I might say much more upon this subject but I have confined myself to facts coming to my knowledge professionally which more or less affect the interest of those for whom I transact business

Yours
W W CHAPMAN

AN UGLY CASE —At the examination of Horace Howe Jr for killing B F Kendall the counsel for the people were Messrs Lander and Strong, and for the defence Messrs Frank Clark and McFadden It appears that Howe gave Kendall a paper at the fatal interview in which Kendall was slain and demanded that he should sign it This paper was found on the person of Kendall Mr Clark was put on the stand and declined to answer directly whether he ever saw that paper or the like, before Howe did the killing with a derringer pistol and had a pair of them Mr Clark was asked whether he could identify them and said he could not He was asked whether he had a similar pair and answered affirmatively but refused to state where the pistols were at the time The Overland Press says that these answers caused many unpleasant surmises in regard to Mr Clark s connection with the affair

Ex President Buchanan has published an elaborate defense against the charges of inefficiency preferred against him by Gen Scott It possesses little interest save that either he or Scott, has lied most nobly in the South cares which Both are miserable old dotards Nothing remains of Old Buck but his cockeyed knavery, and of Scott but his vanity and egotism Their vices live their virtues have rotted

CITY COUNCIL.—The Board of Common Councilmen for this city are a gay set of civic legislators. In some particulars they remind us of school boys, and that brings to our minds the fact that "Men are but boys of a larger growth," and Councilmen are but men. So, while things are working satisfactorily, no person is so good-humored as the Common Councilman; but once touch the dignity of one of them and a debate ensues. For instance; Mr. Councilman Hallock and Mr. Councilman Holmes got stuck, at the last meeting of the Council, on a point of order. Ordinarily these two members are in accord on most questions; but a point of order is a point of order and must be settled orderly. A very short discussion of this very small point developed the granitic formation in the character of these two gentlemen; the substance was reached, out of which the backbones of continents and men are formed, and they proceeded to debate a point of order, which is not debateable. Then the President decided that the point was not well taken. After that, an appeal was taken to the House, and, pending its discussion, they continued to debate the question. If it had been decided, the prospect is fair that they would have debated it after it was decided, but about this time two members of the Council, Messrs. [illegible] and Silver, cut the affair short by [illegible] majestically from the hall. The President has become very touchy about these goings out to stand, for fear he may be left without a single member to move an adjournment; in which case, he would have to adjourn himself.

NEWSPAPERS AND WHISKY.—Liquors sell, in this city, at from twelve and a half to twenty-five cents a glass. The subscription to the Oregonian is but four cents and a fraction each day; yet, there are a great many men who drink several glasses of whisky each day who cannot afford to take a paper! It is a pity that newspapers can't be published for [illegible] and each subscriber furnished with a glass of whisky, free of cost, each morning. A journal that could do this would be sure of an extensive circulation, if it got the latest news, puffed every man's business, told everybody's lies, and avoided the promulgation of truth.

NEWS.—By yesterday's Southern mail we have telegraphic news from the States to the 6th and Yreka dates to the 10th inst. We may expect later States news by any mail from this time on.

THE SALT FAMINE.—The sufferings of a large portion of the people in the Confederate States, from the lack of salt, is said to be terrible. The following is in relation to it:

A correspondence between Governor Moore of Louisiana and Jeff. Davis, has fallen into the possession of the Government. It took place about the second week in November. The Governor appealed for permission for the inhabitants of Louisiana to trade with New Orleans, exchanging cotton and sugar for salt, clothing and other necessaries. Davis [illegible] the application, saying that it was impossible to grant the request, and that no proposition of the kind could be entertained till January. When Lincoln's policy should be developed, it would be time to consider Governor Moore's request. The Governor's reply was short and emphatic. The people of Louisiana, he said, could not stand such a [illegible]. Sickness and death were raging among them, and they were powerless to help themselves. They must have salt and medicine or die. The letter concluded with a declaration that if the President did not relent, his authority would be disregarded.

COTTON STILL KING.—A proposition having been made by the Common Council of Memphis, Tennessee, to issue small notes, General W. T. Sherman addressed them a letter deprecating the measure, and pronouncing it a violation of the Federal Constitution. He points an expedient—the employment of cotton for currency—and says:

Why can you not use cotton for money? It has a very convenient price—fifty cents a pound. Put it up in pounds and fractions, and it will form a far better currency than the miserable shinplasters you propose. If cotton be king, it has the genuine stamp, and its money—is money. Therefore, I suggest that, instead of little bits of paper, you set to work and put up cotton in little parcels of five, ten, twenty-five and fifty cents. If it be my last act, I wish to spare the people of Memphis from the curse of any more bad money.

[illegible].—"Crazy Henry," the man who [illegible] Mr. Reese near Jacksonville, has been arrested and will be sent to the Insane Asylum. Mr. Reese is not yet out of danger.

BURNED.—The house of Joel Vail, on the West fork of the Willamette, was lately destroyed by fire. The loss is about $500.

DOCTOR VAN ZANDT,
CONSULTING PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,

Office, Corner of Washington and Sansome streets, San Francisco.

The GREAT SUCCESS of this CENTURY, and [illegible] MEDICINE.

The Mysterious [illegible] Nature, Electricity [illegible] [illegible] Nervous and [illegible]

THAT THIS [illegible] SUCCESSFULLY APPLIED to diseased [illegible] [illegible]

Too Much Cannot be Said

In its praise, for it is highly probable that [illegible]

Awaken the Magnetic Life within us

[illegible]

No Compromise with Disease.

[illegible] Strength, and Nature will relieve herself. Purify the blood, rouse the stomach, liver, heart, kidneys and all the natural functions [illegible] ELECTRICAL excitation, and [illegible] the palsied, the nervous, the depleted, the [illegible], the dyspeptic and the invalid [illegible]

To the Ladies of California.

Dr Van Zandt's success with complaints of women, both in family and office practice, is owing to his correct views of the origin of all their maladies. Ladies can consult him with [illegible] as he is no speculator upon human ills—[illegible] the only member of the [illegible] profession in California who is really successful in removing those ills which are the peculiar province of the sex. His high [illegible] attained [illegible] nervous organism, together with their great sympathetic life, renders him doubly able to assuage those silent complainings which they [illegible]. No social disquietude need longer afflict our home circles, for, he can awaken the stricken energies; rest on the wonted tonality of the body; awaken the broken to hope and despondency; arrest the drains which cause so much anxiety; cure those prolapsus of ladies which have so long [illegible]

Baffled the Skill of Physicians.

Develope appetite, life and animation, dispel nervous headache, sinking at the stomach, wandering pains, wasting away of strength, extreme debility and listlessness, hectic cough, sleeplessness, unpleasant dreams and that general depression of life's powers, which go to render her life a misery [illegible]. Dr. Van Zandt, with his new method of exciting the Electro-Galvanic current, together with his remedial measures which are adapted to the necessities of California, will assure you of a complete and radical recovery of all bodily and mental infirmities, and will restore you to usefulness, and [illegible] a blessing to your family and society.

All the world over wherever disease exists, whether [illegible] the effect of climate or common to all regions—epidemic or casual, acute or chronic, contagious or non-contagious—it is as necessary to restore the ELECTRO-GALVANIC equilibrium, especially in California, as it is to give food to the starving. This statement is based upon a series of facts extending through many years, and verified by hundreds of patients; so that no principle of science, no rule of experience, no result of any well known cause, rests upon more sure and unassailable foundations, than those which underlie the world-wide reputation of Electricity for the cure of all nervous states of the body, faulty digestion, mental and physical debility or prostration, coughs, asthma, wandering pains of a rheumatic, gouty or mercurial character, and all forms of disease, the result of scrofula or cachectic habit of body.

None Need Despair of Relief.

If [illegible] ulcers which will not heal—pains that cannot be removed—melancholy which you cannot shake off—loss of power which you cannot regain—depression of spirits which weigh you down—wakefulness that knows no sleeping—listlessness that languishes for want of energy—a void which no society can fill—suspicion which no assurance can allay—Go to Dr. Van Zandt, for his great success and the safety with which he administers his new method of electrical excitation, together with his remedies, which are adapted to the requirements of climate and constitution, will assure you of a complete and radical removal of all bodily and mental infirmities, within the scope of science and man to remove.

The Eye and Ear Diseases.

It must not be forgotten by the eye and ear sufferers that Dr Van Zandt has made these afflictions an especial study, and that he is the only surgeon in our State who has a diploma for that branch of practice. Very many of the eye and ear troubles are purely deranged nervous action, and are cured by his electro-galvanic battery—as amaurosis, squinting, cataract, floating specks before the vision, twitching of the eyelids, nervous deafness, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, giddiness, etc. All operations successfully done on those delicate organs of sense.

DR. BAKER'S

PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums, and vegetable oils and herbs. It is perfectly safe for the most delicate to use. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases: If they are not satisfied with its healing properties, the money will be cheerfully returned by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected, and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally, morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea, to the affected parts, and gargle the mouth or throat three or four times a day.

If you have the Diarrhœa, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea, and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely, and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

If you have a severe tooth-ache, apply the Pain Panacea on a piece of cotton and bathe gum at the same time; it will stop the pain instantly.

If you have a pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, bathe parts affected morning and night; at the same time take a dose of the Panacea internally.

If a Mother has a caked breast, apply the Panacea as hot as it can be borne.

If you feel chilly or cold, as though you were going to have a fever, take a dose of Panacea.

If you have a wound, cut, or galls upon your horse, apply the Pain Panacea; it will take out all the inflammation and heal the sore in a short time.

The First Shoes.

Wife, keep those shoes with the shape of the feet in them,
Restless small feet that would never have still.
Through all your years to come, visions how sweet in them,
Dreamings, how priceless, your fancy will fill;
Treasure them; some dreams are more than all pleasures
Life's ever giving our hearts to enjoy;
Few things that ever you'll prize, wife, as treasures,
So dear will be as those shoes of our boy.

Worn is each little sole; blessed was the wearing,
Smoothing them so, at which glad tears you wept,
Those wavering weak steps that caused you such caring,
Those tiny steps that our baby first stept;
Wife, to our hearts, what a joy beyond telling
Were those dear totterings, half baldness, half fear,
All the joy then that our proud hearts were swelling,
Whene'er we see them, with us will be here.

Border those small shoes we'd ere hung out, see them;
Firm was the foot tread at like that they knew,
When mother's eyes to her stooping kiss drew them,
With that rapt gaze that still looked him to you,
Seeing them, oh! in the garden I've found him,
Busy and bustling as out as bee;
Glad as the butterfly flitting around him,
Babbles my baby again up to me.

Treasure them, brood o'er them—oh, how dear to you
Will those small memories in after years prove,
Should it be God's will those eyes that so knew you,
You in this life below no more can love,
Then shall the sight of these be a spell raising
Up to your gaze again, dim through your tears,
That little lost form to gladden your gazing,
Bidding that small tongue again bless your ears.

Ah! If in years to come—oh! God forbid it—
We must with trembling and tears tell his name,
Fear his grown form, and half wish God had hid it
Cold in the coffin before it knew shame,
These shall be balm to the sorrows that wring you,
Over these tears, not all sad, you shall rain,
These his dear baby-face smiles shall bring you,
That you may love him all spotless again.

Far be such thoughts from us; none such we're fearing,
Ever dear, for him, our darling, our joy;
God will his mother's prayers always be hearing,
Hearing his father's prayers, prayed for our boy.
But, oh! dear wife of mine, these shoes, we'll keep them;
Grown up, he'll laugh at what he used to [illegible];
Tears but of pride and joy only shall steep them,
When, a man, with us he eyes his first shoes.

WAGES TO NEGROES.—A letter from Helena, Arkansas, to a New York paper, contains the following view of the probable relation of the negroes and whites, in case the blacks are emancipated; and the feelings of the Southerners towards the African race, which is at once practical and just:

"Before leaving Helena, a few weeks ago, I learned the fact that many of the slaveholders of that region had already entered into a contract with their slaves to remain on the plantations, under wages. They have come to the conclusion that the negroes are quite as necessary to them as they are to the negroes. As laborers they are essential to the South, and no class will be more opposed to their colonization in a foreign country, when the war is over, than their former masters.

The hatred of the negro at the South is far less prevalent than in the Northern States.—Familiar association with them, their presence in every house-hold, their fidelity, and the affectionate nature they possess, have created strong attachments between them and the superior race. In childhood they have mingled together, black nurses have carried the white children in their arms, and kissed and frolicked with them during their tender years, so that the prejudice against the complexion of the negroes at the South scarcely exists. With the Southern people it is simply a prejudice against their becoming free. They want the slave's labor without paying for it; they want the absolute control of the black race, for purposes of profit, and the gratification of pride, passion, and the love of power; they love the negro, but they love him only as a slave to their selfish-interest, their lust, and their domineering propensities. They hate the free negro, merely because he is free, not because he is black. They are afraid of his influence upon the enslaved; they hate him because he has passed beyond their personal control.—When all shall become free they will then find the whole race alike useful and essential to them as hired servants and laborers, and this special hatred of the free black will pass away. The negroes will become a useful peasantry to the proprietors of the soil, and the relation of paid laborers to their employers will retain with it something of the old feeling on the part of the planters implied in the words, "These are my people;" "my servants;" "my laboring population;" and from this will spring laws for their protection, and a new order of things, in which the blacks will have their own households, their rights of marriage and parentage guarantied to them, and be provided with schools for the education of their children.

"I have conversed with several slaveholders on this subject, and after brushing away the cobwebs of prejudice that surround the subject, and getting at the root of the matter, they confess that this is the course likely to be taken, and that they are beginning to make preparation for it.

On the steamer from Memphis to Cairo I learned from a Mr. Aiken, a cotton planter from Tennessee, that the President's Proclamation is expected to go into effect on the first of January, and that he and several of his neighbors had already had a talk with their slaves, and agreed with them that they are to remain as hired servants and receive wages.

Mr. Aiken said to me: "Sir, we are attached to our slaves. Some of them have watched over us in our infancy; some of them have proved their fidelity to us under trying circumstances; as a whole, they are necessary to us as laborers; they are acquainted with the cultivation of cotton, our staple crop, and we prefer them to any new set of laborers that we are likely to get."

He continued, "We have talked the matter over with our slaves, and said to them, 'on the 1st of January we expect you will all receive your freedom by the proclamation of the President, but we want you should not leave us. In the meantime let no one run away.—Stay at home, and continue at your work, and we will do justly by you. You shall have fair wages, and by remaining together you will be better off, and far happier.'"

FEEDING OATS TO HORSES.—The same quantity of oats given to a horse produces different effects according to the time they are administered. I have made experiments on my horses, and have always observed there is in the dung a quantity of oats not digested when I purposely gave them water after a feed of oats. There is, then, a decided advantage in giving horses water before corn. There is another bad habit, that of giving corn and hay immediately on their return to the stable after hard work. Being very hungry, they devour it eagerly and do not masticate; the consequence is, it is not so well digested and not near so nutritious. When a horse returns from work, perspiring and out of breath, he should be allowed to rest for a time, then giving a little hay, a half an hour afterward water, then oats. By this plan water may be given without risk of cold, as the oats act as a stimulant.—Journal d' Agriculture.

GRASS AFTER FLAX.—In accordance with the general expression, I expected a very light crop of grass on the ground where the flax grew last year, but was agreeably disappointed, getting nearly two tons per acre, decidedly the best hay on my farm. It is my opinion that the care and pains, in mowing and culture, necessary to produce a crop of flax, will not result in the impoverishment of our farms, especially if the seed be appropriated in an intelligent system of stock-feeding.

Being in Season.

Farmers' wives, as well as other wives, should always be in season about everything. If "fall work" is to be done, do it in the fall, not linger till winter sends his cold, whistling winds to warn you of his near approach.

Be diligent and in season. Never cause your husband to wait a moment, if possible to prevent it, for, although he may have waited an hour when a lover, without complaint, as a husband he will not do it.

Be punctual as clock-work in all things. Have a regular time for dinner and supper, and breakfast also if need be, and have the meal always at the appointed hour, unless some very important event prevents.

Never neglect your work to gossip with a friend. If one calls when your duties are in the kitchen, invite her to take a seat there, or if it be a stranger politely ask to be excused, but never give to your husband as a reason for a late, or badly prepared dinner or tea, that you had callers, and could not attend to it. It will be no excuse to him. Better wait fifteen minutes yourself—for not having your meals all nicely prepared at the appointed time, you will be nervous, heated and cross—will be more irritable than usual, and if one word of fault is found, it will be a spark fallen on powder, and you will contract a great cause of unhappiness from it, and imagine yourself after thinking and weeping a few hours, the most miserable of your sex. If your husband comes from the field, tired, dull, out of spirits, and almost cross, and finds you ready to meet him with a pleasant smile and a kiss of welcome, backed by a nice dinner or tea already and waiting, believe me, unless he is love-proof, he will come down from his lofty pinnacle of sternness, and meet you with an answering smile, and the meal will pass off pleasantly.

Learn, then, to do every thing in season, and the only way to do so is to commence whatever you have to do, early. Don't sit and read, or even sew, till you feel the time is passing wherein you ought to be getting dinner. No, no! get the dinner, and then improve the remaining time in reading writing, playing or sewing, just as suits you best, and do so with an easy conscience.

If you attend to these little points, believe me, you will save many sighs and tears, many lamentings and repinings, and will live a far happier life, than in indulging in a dilatory process of living.

It is a woman's duty to make as happy as possible, to remove all just cause of complaint, and to be the bearer, rather than the doer of wrong, and no one thing will tend more to promote domestic harmony than strict punctuality in everything appertaining to household affairs. Try it and see if my words are not true.—SARAH, in New England Farmer.

MASONIC ELECTION.—At a regular meeting of Steilacoom Lodge No. 2, F. and A. M., the following persons were elected its officers for the ensuing year: S. McCaw, W. M.; E. A. Light, S. W.; H. D. Montgomery, J. W.; J. Pineus, Treasurer; J. H. Munson, Secretary; A. J. Miller, Tyler.—P. S. Herald.

Proclamation by the Governor.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, PORTLAND, OREGON,
January 6, 1863.

By the President of the United States, through Brigadier General George Wright, commanding the Department of the Pacific, and Brigadier General Benjamin Alvord, commanding the District of Oregon, I have been requested to raise six additional companies, required to complete the 1st Regiment of Cavalry, Oregon Volunteers. They will be needed the coming Spring on the frontiers of this State and Washington Territory, and for an expedition against the Snake Indians, who have so long been mercilessly engaged in robbing emigrants and murdering our fellow-citizens. I cannot doubt that the citizens of Oregon, who have always promptly responded to any demand for their military services, will in like manner respond to this call: thereby showing their loyalty to the Government, and aiding in chastising marauding bands of Indians which infest our frontiers.

The enlisted men, when mounted, will be supplied with horses by the United States, it being understood that they will be mounted or not, as shall be deemed advisable by the Government.

Propositions to raise a whole company, which will furnish their own horses and horse equipments, may be entertained. The men are in such cases entitled to forty cents a day for the use and risk of their horses and horse equipments.

Each company will consist of one hundred enlisted men, and when mustered into the service of the United States to serve for three years, unless sooner discharged.

Recruiting offices will be immediately opened at Portland, Dalles City, and perhaps at other places. By the Governor,
ADDISON C. GIBBS.
